Good season guys you have a great future! Coach Herndon, Glen Krause, Alex Gilbert, Evan Wilson, Colten, Michael H., Big Jonathan, Mikey S., Wolf Jackson, Joseph Ortega, Ryder Gundersen, Abraham Bravo, Edmond Cumberlandidge (Mgr)

Bob Nyberg has been in Sand Point since 1977. He came here as a fisherman and lived in Arizona during the winters. Eight years ago he and his wife, Jerri, moved here permanently. Bob is the maintenance man for the school. His main job is to keep the plumbing and the boiler running for the whole school. He had training at Anchorage at a boiler school and attended another one in Fairbanks called University of Alaska. He is a lifetime commercial fisherman and still fishes four months out of the year during summer.

Good season girls -- we can hardly wait for next year... Coach Mobeck, Coach George, Alyssa, Marieanna, Desiree, Chloe, Madison, Dantezza, Nicole, Payton, Breeanna, Justina, You help to make us Eagle Proud!!!

Opinion THAT'S MY Grade Six

I think that students should get paid for having good grades. Maybe if you wanted to go buy something from the store you would have money from the school. You could use the money to save for college. You might become a millionaire which would be a privilege received from getting good grades.
(Darius Wooden) Do you agree???

Is it legal for a man to marry his widow's sister? Answer on page 4

Lexus Kalmakoff is a second grader who likes to read, write, and draw. Lexus enjoys spending time with her friends and family. She also really likes swimming. Her favorite color is green. She likes to watch movies like Frozen with her sisters Shyann, Avi, and Savannah. Lexus' favorite thing to do is sing. She sings any chance she gets. She sings in the car and at home. She likes to sing songs like Let It Go and Do You Want To Build A Snowman.

Parents

Every year the Sand Point School hosts a Science Fair. The main objective of the Science Fair is to demonstrate their knowledge of the scientific method. This year's fair will be held on Wednesday, March 25th in the gym. This is always a wonderful learning experience for the students, as well as a chance for them to investigate something that interests them personally. This is a big project and when done in steps and allotting the right amount of time the results are nothing short of amazing.

The staff has already begun talking to our about their projects and I would like to use this letter to begin communication with parents about expectations for the science fair. This project is done at home and school. Your child will be provided with checklists prior to due dates to ensure that they are using their time wisely to plan for the fair. Please check over the due dates with your student to make sure they are staying up to date on their work. Parents and others are encouraged to help students with their project, with students doing the majority of the work. As students are working on their science fair project please keep in mind that the internet is a wonderful resource for you to use in choosing a project, researching, as well as throughout the project.

You should receive a packet from your child's teacher. This information will include some resources to help you understand the expectations that we have for students for this Science Fair, a list of the steps that students need to complete for the science fair. A list of due dates is included for the different parts of the project.

With this being such a large project, there will be periodic checks with students to make sure that work is being done at home and turned in by the due dates. If a student falls behind in turning work in for this project parents will be contacted to make sure that you are aware of what is missing. Hopefully this will reduce the stress large projects can create and help keep you better informed. I realize that this seems like quite a lot of information to throw at you all at once, so if you have any questions please contact your child's teacher.

has accomplished yet another amazing feat...PICKLING BEETS! Reactions from the students ranged from "smells like dirt" to "interesting" and even "yum"! The students were amazed at deep redness of the beet juice, and all of the possible uses. We might even use it for Sushi Week

We are currently recruiting "beet eaters" around town. If you ARE one, please let us know and we will pass along a nice little treat for you.

Thank you, Meyers Farm, for your kind and generous beet donation.

Farm to School: ARE YOU SELLING TO A SCHOOL?

"... Our first story comes from Aleutians East Borough in Sand Point Alaska. After attending the Farm to School conference in January, Carolyn Nielsen linked up with two vegetable producers, ordered their food, and engaged her kids in some sampling. Carolyn bought potatoes, carrots, and onions from VanderWeele Farms in Palmer and beets from Meyer Farm in Bethel.

- ⇒ Carolyn got creative with her students and offered a sticker and got signatures from any student willing to taste beets. It was a real hit and even got the older kids involved and being great role models for the younger students.
Carolyn shared the feedback with Meyer Farm:
- ⇒ Tim: We received your produce late last week. It all looks great!
- ⇒ We tried the beets that we purchased from you, for school lunch on Wednesday. We encouraged each child to try the beets. Some only took a little bite, but the consensus was that the beets were really good. One little girl got her brother to try a beet, she told him they tasted like gummy bears. He tried them and though they were good, even though he wasn't sure they tasted like gummy bears. :)
- ⇒ A huge majority of our student had never tried beets. They had some really interesting questions about them. Thank you so much for sending them to us!
- ⇒ have given the little beets, the ones you donated, to the Culinary Arts class. They have not had a chance to do anything with them yet, but the instructor was very appreciative and sends her thanks. When they have used them I asked them to send you some pictures of the finished product.
- ⇒ Again thank you so much and we look forward to working with you in the future.
Carolyn Nielsen
- ⇒ After hearing about Carolyn's success we have tailored two posters for her cafeteria to feature these farms and shared this story far and wide. A huge thank you to all school food service and growers who work hard to feed our children the healthiest, freshest, tastiest food they can.
