Sand Pipers

A type of seabird.
They have speed.
They have precision.
They walk steadily while in a upright stance.

Puffins

They have colored beaks.
They live in large colonies.
Humans hunt puffins in Iceland.
They beat their wings really fast.

Seagulls

They live in noisy colonies.
Older seagulls are called Mews.
You can use a piece of bread as bait.
They lay 2 to 3 speckled eggs in nests.

Ducks

They're aquatic birds.
They live in fresh water and sea-water.
They eat grass, aquatic plants, and fish.
They weight about 3.6 kg.

The Whiskered Auklet

By Ashton Gundersen

The whiskered auklet lives on the ledge laying her eggs.
She wafts on the waves with the wind in her whiskers.
How does she hide her plume from predators?
She only goes out at night.

Puffins

By Emily Osterback

The color, big, bold, bright it is such a sight;
Orange, yellow, red you see a flash in the ocean, then they take flight.

Right on a rock they jump and dive; they even might jump in line.
They flap fast but don't get high; they bounce on water's top; they swim with their orange feet so bright and sheek.
They are the clowns of the sea for sure.

They've lived on the Alaskan Chain for the longest time but they are very hard to find. They're puffins I say.

School Librarian, Day April 3, honors those who serve our young students so well in the local school libraries. The education of young minds needs to be nurtured and fed. Feeding those minds with good quality, yet challenging reading material and reference materials is what school librarians excel at.

Take a minute today, to appreciate all the hard work that a school librarian does daily, and the patience the librarian displays, as he or she aids our youth.

You may choose to show your appreciation to School Librarians in a variety of ways, including:

- Give the librarian a big smile and a big "Thank You!"
 - Tell you librarian that she is doing a wonderful job. Send an Ecard
- Buy an age appropriate book or reference material, and donate it to the library.

IMPAVID: (im-PAV-id): adj. from Latin impravidus, from in- (not) and pavidus (fearful): not afraid; fearless.

It's natural to have some fear, like the type of fear that protects you from touching a hot stove or playing in traffic. But if you find that fear consumes you or even stops you from pursuing what's in your heart, then that fear needs to be escorted to the closest exit door. Impavid is probably my favorite word because it's a great approach to life. It also doesn't sound too weird so you can incorporate it in your everyday vocab and not sound too stuffy.

~~~~~EASTER TRADITIONS AROUND THE WORLD~~~~~

Sweden -- It's all about the fancy dress over in Sweden, with children dressing up as 'Easter witches' so they can visit neighboring houses to trade paintings and drawings for sweets. As for what's on the menu, Swedes like to eat eggs, herring and Jansson's Temptation (potato, onion and pickled sardines baked in cream) over the Easter period.

Germany -- Germans will pile up their old Christmas trees and burn them on Easter Sunday and Monday, signifying the end of winter and the start of spring. It's a festive night, with adults enjoying alcohol and food as they watch the fires chase away the remainder of winter.

Colombia -- Chocolate eggs are not on the menu if you visit this part of South America over Easter. Colombians like to feast on iguanas, turtles and large rodents over the festive period - presumably because they've had enough cocoa through the rest of the year!

Jonathan Rotter has lived in Sand Point for almost all of his life. He is a respected individual in this community. When not in school, Jonathan likes to play basketball and video games. He also likes to spend time with his friends. His favorite class is culinary arts. "I can learn how to cook which will help me later in life." He loves his teachers as they have helped him to substantially better his life. This summer Jonathan plans to play basketball and chill with his friends

THIS EVENT HAS BEEN CANCELLED!

Take a trip back to a simpler time and place: The imaginary Old West! Loudly hiss and boo the villains who embrace true evil and cheer on the sweet heroine who is in dire need of saving...and true love.
 On Friday, April 17 and Saturday, April 18, please join the newly formed Sand Point School Players for an evening of good old-fashioned, family friendly fun as they present, Blazing Guns at Roaring Gulch or The Perfumed Badge. Mark your calendar and look for further ticket information in next week's Friday Flyer.

The Staff and Students at Sand Point School will join with the City of Sand Point and community members for:

Spring Clean-Up

Mrs. Nyberg is looking for a few Salmon PBOs (pin bone out fillets). If you have one or two could you donate to the Culinary Arts Program ? Thanks...

- The Easter Bunny's real name is classified however he is believed to have the initials E.B.
- The Easter Bunny eats lots of lettuce, vegetables and of course carrots. The Easter Bunny loves when kids leave him some carrots the night before Easter.
