6.1 Telling Public Radio's Story

Jump to question: ▾

The purpose of this section is to give you an opportunity to tell us and your community about the activities you have engaged in to address community needs by outlining key services provided, and the local value and impact of those services. Please report on activities that occurred in Fiscal Year 2016. Responses may be shared with Congress or the public. Grantees are required to post a copy of this report (Section 6 only) to their website no later than ten (10) days after the submission of the report to CPB. CPB recommends placing the report in an "About" or similar section on your website. This section had previously been optional. Response to this section of the SAS is now mandatory.

Joint licensee Grantees that have filed a 2016 Local Content and Services Report as part of meeting the requirement for TV CSG funding may state they have done so in the corresponding questions below, so long as all of the questions below were addressed as they relate to radio operations in such report. You must include the date the report was submitted to CPB along with the TV Grantee ID under which it was submitted.

Jump to question: ▾

1. Describe your overall goals and approach to address identified community issues, needs, and interests through your station's vital local services, such as multiplatform long and short-form content, digital and in-person engagement, education services, community information, partnership support, and other activities, and audiences you reached or new audiences you engaged.

Probably the most significant way we are trying to approach community needs is through youth engagement. We are creating a partnership with the school district to begin a radio station focused on students that will play modern music and have production housed within the school itself. Students will be vital in the operations of the station both from a technical aspect and a production. This should be starting early in 2017 and we have hopes to expand to other schools within the school district. In line with student engagement we are also trying to start a program that promotes journalism within the school curriculum. We have had teachers add journalism components into the teaching of English, some of it involving radio. The next stage is to hopefully bring out some people from the Alaska Youth Media group to do some teaching and perhaps a special workshop for students to engage in journalism and media. We have the hope this will grow interest in Public Media in our community but even more continue our mission of spreading education and information throughout our villages.

6.1 Telling Public Radio's Story

Jump to question: ▾

2. Describe key initiatives and the variety of partners with whom you collaborated, including other public media outlets, community nonprofits, government agencies, educational institutions, the business community, teachers and parents, etc. This will illustrate the many ways you're connected across the community and engaged with other important organizations in the area.

In the realm of public media we have partnered with a neighboring radio station about 500 miles west of us in Unalaska to create a news collaboration. We now pay them for their weekly news cast script and training to help us host a Monday through Thursday local/regional news program. We also work with their news department to help pass on stories and train our on-air host to become more geared towards journalism. We are hoping to have our host go to their news department this summer for several weeks to do an intensive training session. We are also working with our local borough and municipalities to broadcast all public meetings and as previously stated have created a very exciting partnership with the school district to expand services and journalism in the schools. One other exciting collaboration was with Public Safety in our village. We partnered to do a road safety course and PSA campaign. We made PSA's that spoke on summer and fall road safety topics and helped put on a bicycle safety course with the students in the elementary school. This was a big success with the students who
